Central High School: Visions

ALMA MATER

High above the busy city
Far beyond all touch of ill, sits enthroned our alma mater
Our dear Lady on the Hill. Lift the chorus, send it
Swelling, with a real and loyal will, and our bounty
Be the beauty of our Lady on the Hill.

Academic Visions

The very essence of Central High School is the academic excellence that exists at all levels of instruction. The 2005 Cog n' Pen has tried to capture just that by way of photography, copy, and graphics. The art of teaching cannot always be captured on film and immortalized in a yearbook, though. The skill, dedication, and caring that our administrators, teachers, and support staff demonstrated has touched each and everyone of us in a way that we will remember for the rest of our lives.

Visions, the theme of the 2005 Cog n' Pen hopes to provide a means for looking back and ahead to the future. We will remember prom, hanging with our friends, field trips, and graduation. We will look ahead to college, trade school, and jobs, and to becoming someone who makes a difference. Central High School faculty has helped us achieve our goals. Some have gone the extra mile and have contributed their time and expertise by coaching, advising, and volunteering. Not everyone wants to be involved in education, but the Class of 2005 is so thankful for the Central High School staff. Whenever we look to the past, present, or future, our Visions will be fond ones.

Gregory Stewart, Principal

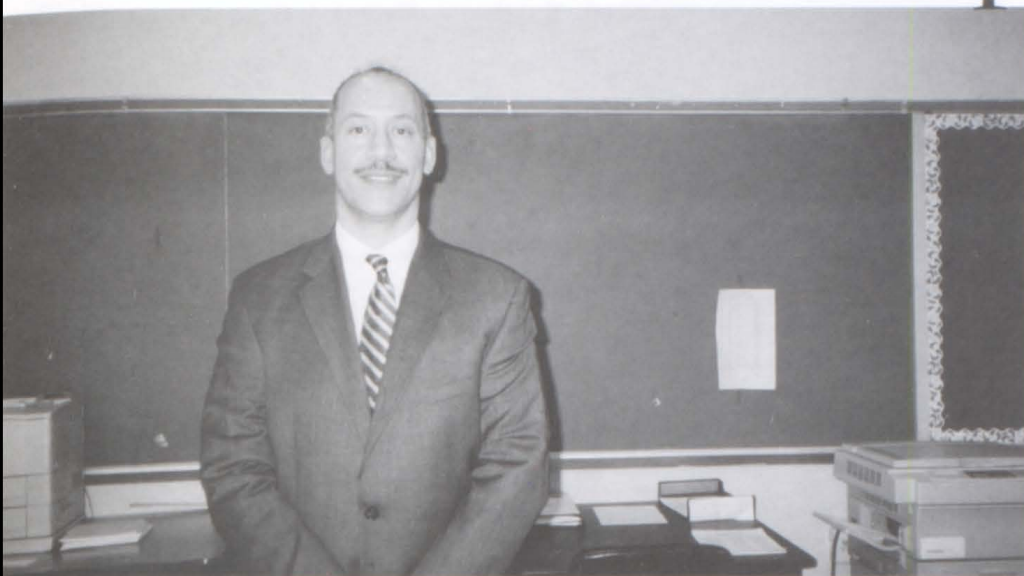

Principal's
Message

Congratulations to the Class of 2005. May you find in your future an abundance of happiness, joy, and success. The contributions made by your class toward making a better society will be cherished. Keep in mind that we share a very special kind of relationship, one that has made you grow into a better person. Over the last four years we have shared so many other things along with your education -- happy memories, precious dreams, little discoveries, private jokes that no one else would understand, and being a part of our new school being built. We have come to know each other's strengths and vulnerabilities and how to really make each other happy. Blue Devils, I would say we are a great team, and I would not trade what these last four years meant to me for any years in my life.

VISIONS 2005

Seniors

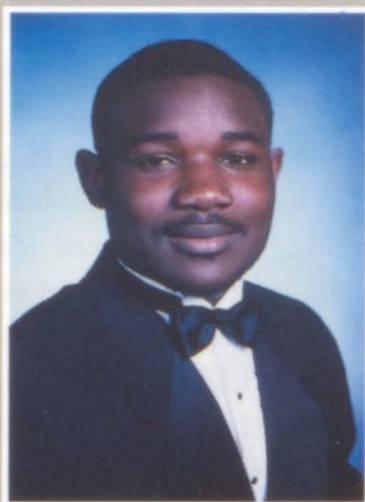

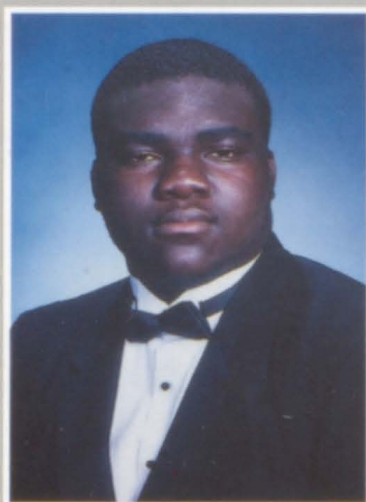

Four years ago, when we first stepped through the doors of Central High School, vivid thoughts captured our minds. We were faced with the realization that our experience here would be unlike any we ever had before. It was also then that we discovered how much change lay ahead of us. During our time here, we faced the reality that undergoing those changes would not be a simple task.

Our four years at Central High School have helped to prepare us mentally and physically for the years to come. Years, which will by no means, be free of worries and despair. The most important teachings have shown that we cannot achieve our goals through "shortcuts" and the "easy way out." We have learned that the most rewarding goals are success and achievement that can only be gained by possessing strong inner-drive, complete devotion, strenuous effort, and whole-hearted determination. We, the Senior Class of 2005, want to thank Central High School for giving us the tools to overcome the obstacles that may block our future paths.

Sports

Discipline, dedication, teamwork, and sportsmanship--these words can all be used to describe the quality of athletes at Central High School. On any team, the athletes incorporate all of these qualities into the way they play the game. By training themselves to eat certain foods, waking up at the crack of dawn to run, and practicing many hours afterschool, Central athletes demonstrate what it means to be both dedicated and disciplined. This commitment is evident by the way they never give up and continuously strive for success. Blue Devil athletes are dedicated first to themselves in accomplishing their goals, then to their teammates with whom they work, and also to the school which they represent.

In addition to these qualities, teamwork is necessary for everyone to work as a whole and be successful. Teamwork is each member contributing what he or she can to better the team and learning how to play together, each to the best of his or her ability. And at the end of the game, whether the outcome is good or bad, every member shows sportsmanship. This quality is the mark of a good athlete. If a true athlete wins or loses, respect for the other team and the game is shown. The 2005 Central High athletes exemplify all of these qualities, and in doing so they make their peers, school, and community proud.

Activities

One of the greatest things about being in high school is having the opportunity to participate in various activities. Besides being academically involved in school, students also need to participate in activities for recreation and enjoyment. Being involved not only offers a sense of belonging, but it also gives students the opportunities to meet different people and experience new things.

Academic clubs enrich students' knowledge and experiences. Central High School has a number of clubs and committies where students learn to cooperate and respect each other while working towards a goal. When students contribute their time, effort, and ideas, then they do their part in building the school up and initiating beneficial programs for it.

School-related activities allow for students to broaden their perception of themselves, their peers, and their environment. Many seniors have joined numerous academic clubs and supplement those with other activities. These same seniors have time for their schoolwork and also have part-time jobs. Playing an active role in their school, they have also learned responsibility, which aids them in other areas of life. One thing is certain: participation in activities is an essential element for success.
